

Maurice “Mo” Green - Candidate for NC State Superintendent of Public Instruction
Public Schools First

Additional context for my responses to many of the questions in the questionnaire:

My vision for the North Carolina public school system is for it to be recognized as an excellent school system that is the best in the country. That vision centers around preparing each and every student for whatever is next for them in life once they graduate from high school, be it college, career, military, etc. That vision matches and surpasses the North Carolina constitutional requirement regarding a sound, basic education, as defined by the North Carolina Supreme Court in the Leandro litigation. My vision also includes character development, as I believe in the words of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr: “intelligence, plus character, that is the goal of true education.”

This vision can be realized through commitments by a wide variety of stakeholders (e.g., General Assembly, State Board of Education, local boards of education, educators, Governor, parents, faith community, businesses, etc.) to the following:

- Investing fully in public education
- Revering educators (teachers as well as other educators such as custodians, cafeteria workers, bus drivers, counselors, etc.) and paying them more
- Providing appropriate and differentiated resources for each student according to their needs
- Enhancing parent and community engagement
- Ensuring safe and securing learning environments
- Celebrating the good in public education

The vision to be “excellent” and “the best” is core to how I work. For example, when I was superintendent of Guilford County Schools, I worked with others to set a vision of education excellence (the successful coupling of academic achievement and character development) for the district and would share that the goal for GCS is to be the best school district in the country. In the district’s first strategic plan, I wrote:

“If we commit to excellence, our children and young people, all with the capacity to be great, will respond in kind. If we expect excellence, they will deliver it. If excellence is the only acceptable option, they will embrace it, for children live what they know.”

While there is certainly room for continued improvement in GCS, it is through the work of many who came before me, the work of many who worked alongside me, and the work of many who have continued to work after I left GCS that the district and its schools have been routinely recognized for its excellence and for being among the best in the state and nationally in academic achievement, character development and the arts.

10	I believe that charter schools can provide opportunities for innovation. For example, as Superintendent of Guilford County Schools, I looked at the innovative practices in a system of charter schools (and a private school) when we decided to create a middle school preparatory academy. For many years, I have supported placing a cap on charter schools that could be raised incrementally based on factors such as increases in the overall student population in North Carolina and in certain communities, outstanding results with students and a commitment to those schools serving essentially all students, particularly socio-economically disadvantaged students and students of color.
