Education Position Questionnaire

Item #	Please feel free to add comments to explain or elaborate on your positions on specific items, if desired ( OPTIONAL )
1	The pay raises approved by the Republican-led General Assembly (4% in '23, followed by 3% in '24) are a slap in the face to the hard working state employees of North Carolina, including our educators. I believe the average NC teacher salary should be no less than $60,000/year. More importantly, we need to be competitive on pay relative to our surrounding states which, on compensation alone, would require paying at least $62,241/year.
8	Evaluating teachers (and students) on standardized tests alone is an antiquated assessment method that fails to take into consideration systemic biases and account for change in student performance over time. Teacher performance would be better judged by student outcomes as a measure of growth or change from their individual baseline assessments, qualitative measures of holistic student performance, as well as parent, peer, and supervisor feedback.
10	The Republican-led General Assembly has made a disaster of the North Carolina charter schools system. By creating a hierarchy of authorization and oversight that is separate and distinct from the traditional public school system, they have established a shadow system that disenfranchises traditional public schools, risks the rampant expansion of charter schools with little consequence for under-performance (or fiscal mismanagement), and creates confusion for families and children. Instead, we need one system, with a capped number of not-for-profit charter schools, subject to the same set of accountability standards as traditional public schools.
